This training certificate is not a nationally-recognized and accredited Food Manager Certification.

—To become a Certified Food Protection Manager (CFPM), you must successfully pass an accredited exam administered by a proctor.

—You can register for an exam at www.statefoodsafety.com. If you purchased this course in a package that included the CFPM exam, please return to your My Courses page to schedule with a proctor and take your exam.

Texas food managers may choose to take a TDSHS-approved manager exam.

—To become a food safety manager in the State of Texas, you may choose to take an accredited exam or an exam approved by the Texas Department of State Health Services. Both exam options are available at www.statefoodsafety.com.

—Be advised that the TDSHS-approved exam does not need to be administered by a proctor and is only valid in the State of Texas.

—If you purchased this course in a package that included the Texas Food Manager Exam, please return to your My Courses page to take your exam.
